

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

Our Normal Department affords instruction in the History of Education, the Theory and Practice of Teaching, and the Best Modern Methods. The Teachers' Course corresponds to the course required for a diploma from a State institute.

First Year.—White's School Management; Page's Theory and Practice of Teaching; Painter's History of Education.

Second Year.—White's Elements of Pedagogy; Raub's Methods of Teaching; Payne's School Supervision; Hughes' Mistakes in Teaching.

There is a growing demand for trained teachers. Those preparing to teach must have professional training, or be outstripped by those who are better equipped. We do not guarantee situations. Last year 75 per cent. of the students in this department secured positions. We never fail in securing desirable situations for capable and well-trained teachers.

Relative to our Normal training, we name as

GREEK.

First Year.—Harkness' First Greek Book; Goodwin's Greek Grammar.

Second Year.—Xenophon's Anabasis; Greek Testament.

Third Year.—Homer's Iliad; Demosthenes de Corona.

This means four books of the authors mentioned; four of Cicero's Orations and one of Demosthenes.

GERMAN.

A course in German will be open to those desiring to master that language.

Natural Science.

First Year.—Anatomy by Chart; Physiology (Lincoln).

Second Year.—Physics (Gage); Physical Geography (Guyot).

Third Year.—Geology (Le Conte); Chemistry (Avery); Mineralogy (Dana).

Mental and Moral Science.

Third Year.—Steele's Elements of Psychology; Hopkins' Law of Love.

Fourth Year.—Davis' Psychology; Hopkins' Evidences of Christianity; Ely's Political Economy.

This has been done in numerous instances, and our graduates have been able to hold their hands with those of more expensive and better endowed colleges, by the force of habit acquired in this institution.

But this does not mean the mere looking into and handling of a large number of costly text-books. Rather do we insist on a thorough mastery of the texts taken in hand, and we endeavor to complete each book in the course prescribed. "Not many things, but much," is our motto.

Mathematics.

First Year.—Ray's New Higher Arithmetic; Milne's Algebra.

Second Year.—Wentworth's Complete Algebra; Wentworth's Geometry begun.

Third Year.—Geometry completed; Trigonometry; Surveying.

Fourth Year.—Wentworth's Analytics; Young's Astronomy.

English.

First Year.—Whitney & Lockwood's Grammar; Original Exercises.

Second Year.—Lockwood's Rhetoric; Shaw's Literature; Civics.

Third Year.—Hill & Jevon's Logic; General History; Constitutional History.

Languages.

LATIN.

First Year.—Beginner's Latin (Collar & Daniell); Cæsar begun.

Second Year.—Cæsar finished; Virgil's Æneid; Bennett's Grammar.

Third Year.—Cicero's Orations; Horace; Latin Prose Composition.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The following branches in Mathematics, Ancient Languages, Natural Sciences, Moral Philosophy, German, and English will be taught on the open system to those qualified to take them. Preparatory instruction will be given also to those who are not qualified to take collegiate courses.

Students prepare their recitations in their own rooms, and report at regular hours. Those who are not competent to pursue their studies in private, are not fitted for the freedom of a college.

But loitering and idleness about the college grounds are strictly prohibited. Great patience will be shown to the ignorant and undisciplined, but the vicious and the indolent will not be tolerated. A college is a place for labor and industry, not for amusement and indifference.

A suitable room in the college has been set apart as a study hall for young lady students, and they will spend their time therein when not at their boarding places or engaged in recitation.

A Three Years' Course.

It is the purpose of this institution, and has long been in successful practice, to encourage diligent students to outstrip the average scholar, and to complete in three years a course that ordinarily occupies the regular classes for four years or more.

Hiwassee College.

Origin.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE has a peculiar beginning, dating back to 1849. Dr. M. Gibson, a professor in Tusculum College, engaged to teach at Fork Creek Academy. His school grew until he found need of greater room. To secure this, he moved over to Bat Creek camp ground, the church becoming a school-room, and the camps dormitories for young men. Robert Doak, A.M., succeeded Dr. Gibson. Four local preachers, John Key, Lewis Carter, John F. Gilbreath, and Joseph Forshee, procuring such aid as they were able, proceeded to the erection of a brick edifice for college purposes—a plain, substantial structure for practical needs. A charter was obtained, granting Hiwassee College all powers and privileges enjoyed by any similar institution in the State. Boardinghouse, dormitories, library, postoffice, etc., came on in due course. Finally, after some years, the college passed under the control of the Holston Annual Conference, M. E. C., S. It has gradually grown, and its influence widened. There are now six buildings, and more than fifty acres of ground.

The original design of the founders of Hiwassee College was to secure to boys of moderate means an opportunity to obtain a thorough and practical education, cheap rates of board and tuition, yet put them under able, experienced, and Christian teachers. This is our purpose still, hence, economy of time, dress, etc., is yet a rule. Expenses are at the minimum.

THE HEROISM OF SUFFERING.

When the high salaried men of the universities and endowed colleges have been forgotten, John H. Brunner will be remembered. The men that have done hard work for small pay are the men the people worship. The unselfish who have made sacrifices, have had loves unrequited and sorrows untold, are the men to whom posterity will erect monuments. Creed Fulton will outlive Charles Collins. Asbury and McKendree will live in the affections of mankind when Beecher and Talmage are forgotten. Cæsar was the greater for his tragic death, and Napoleon for his misfortunes. The conquered hero of Waterloo is mentioned ten times to his conqueror's once. Lee and Jackson and Sidney Johnston will be embalmed in history and song for future ages. The struggles of the Southern States for the principles of the Constitution will be the Iliad of future times. Lincoln's assassination stamped his reputation with the seal of immortality. His tender heart, sense of justice, magnanimity will go along with the sad tragedy of his taking off. Grant will be admired, wondered at; Lincoln will be loved and adored.—Holston Methodist.

nation is held, each professor conducting such examination as he deems best, to ascertain what class the student is prepared to enter.

Boarding House.

The old boarding house has been torn away, and a new one, more modern in its arrangements, has been built, and has been leased for a term of years to Mr. D. W. Patterson, an experienced boarding house man.

Railroad and Postal Facilities.

The college is situated in a valley between two lines of railroad, both running south from Knoxville.

Madisonville, two miles south of the college, is on the Knoxville Southern, or Marietta & North Georgia.

Sweetwater, seven miles west, is on the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia, and is connected at Chattanooga and Dalton with all the great Southern lines of railway. Hacks will always be found at either of these stations to convey students to the college.

"Hiwassee College" is a postoffice, and has a daily mail to Madisonville, where it connects with the mail trains on the railroads.

There are also telegraph offices, banks, and other business facilities at both Madisonville and Sweetwater.

ble on Friday nights for debate and other literary exercises. They are subject to their own Constitution and By-laws. The advantage of these societies is recognized by the Faculty, and every facility afforded for their progress and improvement.

At the opening of the Spring Term, 1895, the young ladies in school organized the Castalian Literary Society. They meet every Friday afternoon. Their meetings are very interesting, and calculated to do much good. As yet, they have no hall of their own, but meet in the halls set apart for the young men.

Composition and Declamation.

Besides these exercises, all students are required to declaim and to read original essays several times each session before the Faculty and students in the college chapel.

Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association has a neat hall, where they hold regular meetings twice a week, on Wednesday and Sunday evenings. Nothing connected with the college has a firmer hold upon the young men; nothing is more assiduously encouraged by the Faculty.

Admissions and Examinations.

Applicants for admission who have been students in other institutions must produce evidence of having left them in good standing. No student will be permanently enrolled in any class until he has matriculated. No formal entrance exami-

There are small fees for admission into the literary societies, assessed by consent of the members.

Text-books are purchased by order of the President at wholesale rates, and are furnished the student for cash, without profit.

All college expenses must be settled on entrance, unless otherwise arranged with the President.

Chapel Exercises.

Every morning at 10 o'clock the whole body of faculty and students is called together in the college chapel. The roll is called, absentees carefully noted, and all matters of business or of discipline are considered. Reading the Scriptures, singing, and prayer are reverently conducted.

Morals and Manners.

Every moral and religious influence is brought to bear upon the conduct of the pupils, for without these restraints other instructions would be vain.

All students are required to attend the Sunday school and regular preaching at the church near by.

The use of intoxicating drinks, visits to town without express permission, and all forms of immorality are sternly repressed. Obedience to every law of God and man is invariably required.

Societies.

The Eromathesian and Eroalethean Literary Societies have beautiful and well furnished halls, and are conducted by officers of their own choosing. They asseming money or time. We live in a plain community, and teach economy by example and precept.

Board.

There are three kinds of boarding accessible to our students:

1. Private families, where everything is furnished at $2.25 per week.
2. The college boarding house, at which the same can be had at $2.25 per week.
3. The dormitory system, in which students rent rooms, furnish them, and board themselves.

By the latter method some have reduced their living expenses to a point far below the price of regular board, about $2.50 per month. Washing is taken by neighboring women at one dollar per month. Students furnish their own washing, lights, and toilet articles. A small country store is at hand for the supply of necessary goods.

Tuition Fees, etc.

These are merely three or four dollars per month, according to grade, in College classes. In the Preparatory Department the fees are two dollars per month. Reasonable discounts are offered to clubs of two or more entering at the same time.

A contingent fee of two dollars per term is charged for expenses of college buildings. This fee must be paid when the student matriculates.

A library fee of one dollar entitles the student to the use of any library book, one or two at one time, to be returned in good condition. Some two thousand volumes are thus placed in reach of the student.

To those completing the same course, excluding Greek and Latin, the Degree Bachelor of Science.

The Degree Bachelor of Pedagogy will be conferred upon those completing the prescribed course.

Admission of Young Ladies.

At the opening of the spring term, 1894, to supply a want long felt in the community where the college is located, for the first time in the history of the college its doors were opened to young women. Those who have entered have kept pace with the young men in the same classes. The experiment has proved eminently successful, and will be continued. We hope, in the near future, to have better accommodation for our female department.

"Coeducation has not only caused no trouble or disorders in educational institutions where it has been tried, but has been found to be the only effective means of correcting the very evils it was feared it would cause."

Expenses.

We hold ourselves in readiness to furnish a competent education at less cost than any college of equal reputation in this country. While the richly endowed institutions of the North and of our own States offer free tuition, it has been found that the average expenses for living in most of them far exceed the entire cost of both tuition and board at Hiwassee College. Many successful men have been educated here who say that they could not have gone through any other college on the means at their command. We have no town near us to afford attractions for wast-
